spring FORWARD

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

HENRY LESSNER

Dear Neighbors,

Here it is February already (as I write this). Some days it feels like spring is on the way, but then winter decides to remind us that it is not done with us yet!

There has been good news on the battle against COVID-19. There are now multiple places to get vaccinated and two new vaccines coming on the market. While there are variants of the virus showing up, the vaccines already developed are effective against them. There are long waiting lists for the vaccination sites, but they are being worked down. These sites could do many more vaccinations if they could get more vaccine doses. The best news is that the number of people getting serious ill from COVID-19 is declining. That being said, prior to Thanksgiving, I knew no one affected by this disease. Since Thanksgiving, the disease is all around me. It has come very close to many in my family and friends. Several folks I know are seriously ill and near death. Please don't let your guard down. Hopefully by mid-year we can start going back to more normal lives.

Drainage Issues

By the time you read this, the Town will have had a meeting on drainage with the Bluebird Lane neighborhood, notified the FoxGlen neighborhood about a meeting to discuss the drainage project in their neighborhood, and residents living along Sloan Creek in Montecito Estates will have been invited to a meeting to discuss potential ways to mitigate flooding along the creek.

The first set of Building Regulation ordinances has been updated to reflect the changes that the Council thought important.

We had another meeting with the Army Corps of Engineers to discuss Sloan/Wilson Creek flooding. Senator Cornyn has tasked the Secretary of the Army to provide a written status to update him on "the status of their efforts to address flooding at Wilson Creek and Sloan Creek in Fairview, Texas". We thank Congressman Van Taylor and Senator John Cornyn for their support and attention to this problem.

Zoning

I want to talk about our Planning and Zoning Board (P&Z) this month. You probably know that the seven residents who serve us on this Board are all volunteers. I hope that we remember that when we wish to express an opinion about an issue before P&Z. A couple of things to know about zoning cases:

- Zoning requests are brought to the Town by the property owner.
- Following Town ordinances, a property owner can bring a zoning case to the Town as many times as they want to.

Town of Fairview
372 Town Place
Fairview, TX 75069
972-562-0522

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

previous page*

- The Town is legally obligated to hear, review, and act on all zoning cases brought forward by the property owner.
- P&Z reviews zoning cases to make sure they are in compliance with Fairview's ordinances and Texas law.
- P&Z is a recommending Board in the state of Texas. P&Z makes recommendations to the Town Council which takes final action.
- If P&Z recommends against approval of a zoning case, there is a process for the property owner to take their case directly to the Council.
- If a property owner feels that he has been harmed by the Town, the property owner can sue the Town.
- If the property owner is successful in the suit against the Town, there is a possibility that the Town will be forced to purchase the property in question at full market value. As you know in Fairview, land is very expensive something close to $250,000/acre; $7,500,000 for a 30 acre tract plus court costs.

Making zoning changes is not a good/bad choice for the Town. Two examples from the recent past:

- The Council successfully denied a zoning change request that would have caused increased density where Chamberlain Place is today.
- On the other side, the Council agreed to a zoning change request that allowed slightly increased density in the Parkside neighborhood in exchange for all of the property at the back of that neighborhood that enabled the Town to create the Parkside Trail.

All this being said, the property owner has every right to develop their property as long as the development is consistent with our ordinances and state law.

Closing

Remember those that are less fortunate than we are. Unemployment remains high and our local non-profits are helping with distributing record amounts of food and other types of assistance. Give local.

Stay safe.

Sign Up for Nixle Notification System for Emergency and Community Information

Nixle messaging is one of the ways the Town can communicate emergency or other community information to residents. This was one of the ways the Town was able to communicate the information about the recent water line break and the resulting boil water notice. That information is provided to subscribers through text messages to your phone and via email. All residents are encouraged to sign up for this notification system. There is no charge from the town for this service, but message and data rates may apply if you chose to receive alerts through your cell phone and/or smart devices.

This system allows residents to receive the following types of alerts and notifications:

- Emergency Alerts (i.e. tornado warning, major water issues)
- Advisory Notifications (i.e. road closures, police activity, severe weather)
- Community Notifications (i.e. town hall updates, event information)

There are three ways to sign up:

- Sign up by texting the word Fairview to 888777

No matter which method you decide to use as a means of signing up it's recommended that you register an account at Nixle's website to customize what messages you receive and how you receive them. Registering an account through Nixle's website will also allow those signing up via text message to add an email address for receiving alerts and notifications.

How will I receive messages?

Life is Full of Obstacles: A lesson from the Land of the Midnight Sun

Dave Quinn • Fairview Economic Development Blog

While on a fun run in Anchorage, Alaska, our group encountered a detour in our path. A bridge closed sign hung across the trail we had chosen for our run. But as we approached the sign in the early dawn, we could just make out a white trail leading us around the obstacle. Lucky for us, someone had gone out before us and marked an alternative path using flour. Ingenious really. A cheap, efficient system of helping those coming after them to find a way around the obstacle.

As I read my notes in my journal from that morning, I was struck by a thought. Obstacles exist everywhere in our lives, and part of succeeding in life is learning to navigate these obstacles efficiently as possible. Unfortunately, all too often, we spend more time and energy lamenting the difficulties we encounter instead of investing that time and energy in getting past the obstacle.

If we can see these encounters as opportunities for growth and becoming better at addressing challenges when they happen, we can substantively change our futures. We can also get better at identifying hurdles before they happen. We can begin to chart easier paths to growth and prosperity.

So, don't let the existences of hurdles sap your mental energy. Instead, rejoice the hurdles when they come. Spend your life instead working to clear the hurdles or becoming a champion hurdler. Your value exists in finding creative solutions to overcoming roadblocks placed in the path of your businesses. So, as we prepare for Spring in Texas post-Covid, let's give a nod to those beautiful hurdles that keep us on our toes.

If you are facing a challenge in your business and looking for an alternative location closer to home, I'd love to help you locate right here in Fairview, Texas. There is a new office coming online this spring in the Fairview Town Center. Reach out today, and let's chat. You can email me at DQuinn@FairviewTexas.org or give me a call at 972.886.4222.

Reducing your average commute down to 5-7 minutes would allow you to spend more time with the ones you love and working on your hurdling skills.

Exploring Theatre for Ages 7-11

These camps focus on theatre games and activities as well rehearsing a monologue or short scene that the students and their teacher create together. Fairview's Two-Week Productions cram all the fun of a major production into two crazy weeks! ACTOR OF FAIRVIEW: Taylor

Taylor is 9 years old and is in fourth grade at Puster Elementary. She enjoys acting, singing, playing basketball, tumbling, art and playing with friends. When she was in kindergarten, she came to Fairview Youth Theatre to see a friend in a show. After she saw the show, she told her mom she wanted to be in a play. She started at NTPA by taking an after school acting class and then later signed up for her first show when she was in first grade. She says now she cannot get enough and is currently in her 16th show.

Taylor loves being on the stage and making people smile. "I enjoy dancing and transforming into the character I am playing. My favorite show to be a part of was Moana Jr. because we got to sing in a different language and the music was fun and upbeat. It was fun to see the audience enjoying the show and their reactions when the show was over."

Of her sixteen shows so far, her favorite role was Young Simba in The Lion King Kids. "I really enjoyed acting out a role that I had seen in person at Dallas Summer Musicals. Young Simba was my first big role, so it has a special place in my heart."

She believes Fairview Youth Theatre is a special place, "it has become a second home for me. I am always excited for rehearsals because I get to see the friends I have made. Even though we are different ages and at different schools we are all so close. The directors expect a lot out of us but always in a fun and loving way. It is also a place that my mom and I have been able to do things together because she volunteers to help out a lot."

Come support Taylor in her next show Annie Kids, in the role of Grace, at NTPA-Fairview March 19 – 27. For more details on upcoming auditions, classes or ticket information go here for more details: NorthTexasPerformingArts.org
